

Styria

Meet Styria, the green heart of Austria.

Some call it Styria, but this green area, located in the heart of Austria, between Vienna and Salzburg, certainly deserves a visit.

Austria is abundant in green areas that provide an excellent location for a family vacation, but this region is considered the greenest in Austria.

Stunning landscapes, mountain peaks up to 2990 meters, lakes, rivers, streams, forests and landscapes you can't get enough of.

Alongside, the area is rich in a plethora of attractions for the whole family: nature hiking trails, bike paths along the Mur river, rope parks and adventures, salt mines, mountain slides, cable cars, and chairlifts.

Murau Murtal

The hotel is located near the town of Murau, within the Murau-Murtal area. The area is named after the Mur river that flows through its center and is characterized by mountains, lakes, and forests.

The motto of the area is Nature. Hiking. Families.

In Murau, there's an abundance of marked trails for family walks biking ranging in altitude from 800 to 2700 meters.

In the summer, you'll meet many families walking along the trails, sometimes even with babies in strollers.

You will also find a lot of activity around rivers and waterfalls in the area. Rafting, lake kayaking.

For adventure lovers, there are chairlifts, cable cars, rope parks and adventure parks.
